

History Knowledge Organiser

Year 1

Autumn (ii)

What toys did nanny play with and do girls have to play with the same toys today?

Substantive Knowledge - Toys have changed over time

Toys have changed over time.

In the past, toys may not have been as safe to play with as they are now; they may have had sharp edges or have been made from unsafe materials. Today, toys are often made from plastic or foam.

Nanny's
Teddy

Mummy's Teddy

My Teddy

Oldest

Grandad's
Train

Old

Daddy's
Train

New

My Train

Not many children played with toys which were battery operated when nanny and grandad were young.

Batteries were more expensive and bigger. Not many people owned rechargeable batteries or chargers.

Old

old battery operated toy Played with by grandad

New

new battery operated toy Played with today

Old

New

battery operated toy
owned by nanny

battery operated toy
owned today

Today, boys and girls can play with each others toys.

In the past, sometimes, boys had to play with boys' toys and girls had to play with girls' toys.
Today, toys can be played with by all children.

Boys and girls
sometimes played with different toys.

Is it still the same today?

Portable Knowledge - What we need to remember

Toys have changed over time.
Nannies and grandads would not have had many battery operated toys when they were young.
Boys and girls can play with the same toys
today.

Today, boys and girls can play with the same toys.

Core Vocabulary

Chronological order – in time order

Timeline – showing the time order

Generation – a group of people born in the same time period